GUIDE RIGHT:

ETHICS FOR YOUNG PEOPLE.

By EMMA L. BALLOU.

With Numerous Attractive Text Illustrations

By EFFIE LOUISE KOOGLE.

This is a Story Book of the most fascinating style. The reader is captivated at the very beginning, and the interest increases as the story continues.

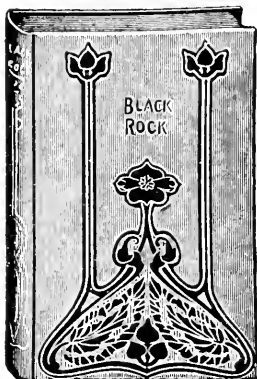

In the stories of this book the author has presented the principles which underlie right actions in such plain and simple form as to be easily understood by young children. The books that we read become a part of ourselves. They enter, not only into our mental makeup, but they influence our thinking to such an extent as to become part of the moral fibre of our characters. The reader of Guide Right will absorb from these stories right motives for action, and be strengthened to fight the battle with evil. The result is Soul-Cultivation through the reading of stories of the keenest interest.

We cannot recommend this Book too highly. We regard it as our most important publication. It is specially suited for Pupils' Reading Courses, and as a Supplementary Reader for the Third or Fourth Grade. It should be in every School Library. We issue a fine Holiday Edition which is desirable as a Gift Book. No more fitting present could be given a boy or girl.

Portraits of Washington, Lincoln, Longfellow, McKinley, Dewey.

The most important requisite to the celebration of the birthdays is a likeness of each of our heroes. We have prepared remarkably pleasing portraits of Washington, Lincoln, Longfellow, McKinley and Dewey, each size 22x28 inches. Printed in black on white cardboard, as fine as steel.

In the preparation of these pictures, the drawings have been handled with intense feeling, and the pictures lack entirely the hard, metallic effect so pronounced in many others of a similar style. The likenesses are perfect. That of Lincoln is pronounced by Hon. Robert T. Lincoln to be the best portrait of his father published. The photo from which the Dewey portrait is made was selected by Hon. Charles Dewey for the purpose, as the most authentic likeness of the Admiral. The McKinley portrait is after the photo that was said to be McKinley's favorite likeness. Prices, 25 cents each, any 3 for 60 cents, or all 5 for 80 cents.
